

7. Correct. The answer is false. The electrical force is the force between negatively charged electrons and positively charged protons. It holds the electrons to the nucleus, whereas the nuclear force holds the nucleus of an atom together.