

12. Incorrect. The answer is true not false. If cost of capital increased it would shift the supply curve to the left or decrease supply, this would move us along the demand curve to a higher price and a lower quantity demanded. It may also decrease demand as the cost of putting in coal burning equipment increased.