

14. Correct. The answer is true. In a competitive market with perfectly inelastic demand consumers fully absorb imposed taxes, because producer can just increase price by the amount of tax supplying the same quantity.

