

5. Correct. The answer is false. North America is the most electricity intensive area of the world and Africa is the least electricity intensive.