

34. Correct. The answer is true. With rate of return regulation costs can be passed on to consumers. With price cap productivity gains and cost reduction high than the regulators expected productivity expectation can be kept by the producer.