

4. Correct. The answer is false. Regulatory capture refers to a situation where regulators become close to and take the point of view of the regulated industry. A contributing factor to regulatory capture is that regulators may go to work for the regulated industry after retirement from the government.