

5. Correct. The answer is true. Getting re-elected is often a primary political goal of elected officials. Thus they may pressure utilities to hire extra labor, charge low prices, protect domestic industry and jobs and help low income class voters.