

21. Incorrect. The answer is true not false. Although in principle, government ownership can be as economically efficient as private ownership often political goals and lack of market discipline make them less efficient.