

18. Correct. The answer is false. Cutting posted prices and, hence, producer taxes caused the formation of OPEC. In the Red Line Agreement, the large multinational oil companies divided up the Middle East and stabilized oil prices for many years. Meanwhile the Texas Railroad and other state commissions stabilized prices in the US until 1973.