

26. Correct. The answer is true. They have relatively low populations but high income and reserves. Whereas Indonesia and Nigeria have lower incomes and reserves relative to their populations and would be considered high absorbers.