

11. Correct. The answer is false. Although it is true that today in the US deregulation uncertainties have decreased, natural gas prices are very volatile from market uncertainties. Nowadays, gas prices are twice as volatile as those for crude oil.