

16. Correct. The answer is false. After 1935, the U.S. interstate gas market totally deintegrated with transportation being split from distribution and production