

28. Correct. The answer is true. The information revolution, which includes e-commerce and e-business, is changing cost structures and may require new management and business techniques.