

34. Correct. The answer is true. Since 1980, natural gas has had the fastest consumption growth rate of all fossil fuels, averaging 2.5% a year compared to 1.4% per year for coal, and <1% per year for oil. By 1997, natural gas contributed 22% of global energy consumption.