

42. Correct. The answer is false. U.S. consumption in 2000 was around 20×10^{15} Mcf, which is around 20 quadrillion BTUs often referred to as 20 quads.