

23. Correct. The answer is true. A facilitator is a person who brings parties together for a negotiation. A rules manipulator is a person who provides the rules for the negotiation. A mediator is a person who helps in the negotiation, while an arbitrator helps in the decision. Mediators don't dictate solutions, but arbitrators do.