

33. Correct. The answer is true. Distributive games are ones where the negotiation is over how payments are distributed between the players.