

13. Correct. The answer is true. The European gas market is dependent on Russian gas. Although not all of the European gas comes from Russia, a large proportion does.