

15. Correct. The answer is false. The European energy market is dominated by large multinational conglomerates. With electrical and gas deregulation there have been numerous energy company mergers.