

15. Incorrect. The answer is false not true. The European energy market is dominated by large multinational conglomerates. With electrical and gas deregulation there have been numerous energy company mergers.