

18. Correct. The answer is true. The Stackelberg model says that one firm is dominant and it maximizes profits taking the reaction function of the other firm as given. However, it is different from a dominant firm model since the non-dominant firm is not competitive as is in the dominant first model