

8. Correct. The answer is true. If we could internalize the externality through taxation, marginal social cost would be equal to marginal private costs plus tax, and we would optimize social welfare.