

19. Correct. The answer is true. By internalizing the externality, the firm would be producing the socially optimal quantity of the good.

