

32. Correct The answer is false. A major problem with solar power is storage and developing a medium with which to store energy from the period when it is collected to when it will be utilized Batteries and pumped storage are possible ways to store electricity.