

2. Correct. The answer is true. They can bring in government finances, foreign exchange reserves, funds for investment, technology transfer, and create employment. However, they may also bring corruption, inflation, political crisis from rising expectations, increasing income inequality, and rapid urbanization. (contributed by CAO Huizhuo)