

19. Correct. The answer is false. An incubator culture is typically very people oriented. Authority comes from individual ideas and visions. Accumulating power by dominating your opponents and not moving the group forward is frowned upon.